LIMITING ARMAMENTS.

GREAT HOPES OF GENEVA CONFERENCE.

SOVIET SCHEME AIRED.

Destruction of All Means of Warfare.

INTENSE PROPAGANDA FOR PEACE AND DISARMAMENT URGED.

For the first time the Soviet has been represented at the preliminary Disarmament Conference at Geneva.
At the opening session yesterday M. Litvinoff, the chief Soviet delegate, made a long statement urging the absolute destruction of all means of warfare and a campaign having for its object complete disarmament and intense propaganda for peace and disarmament.
The statement has already been criticised as impracticable.
Meanwhile both Russia and the United States have signified that they will not be members of the proposed security committee.

BRITAIN'S GREAT REDUCTIONS.

Rugby, Yesterday.
Twenty-six nations including the first time delegates of all Great Powers are represented at the Preparatory Disarmament Commission which opens its session at Geneva to-day. In the year the Commission was engaged on drafting questions that might serve as a basis for the main conference.
In the absence of an agreement work on the draft was delayed and will not be resumed until the present meeting has reviewed the present position and has considered the appointment of a security committee as recommended by the eighth meeting of the Assembly of the League of Nations.

The Assembly's resolution urged that such a committee should be charged with the study under the direction of the Commission of the best methods of limiting all countries the guarantee of arbitration and security necessary to enable them to fix the level of their armaments at the lowest possible figure.
Britain's Great share.

The British newspapers generally are devoting much attention to the proceedings at Geneva and display a unanimous desire both for economy and the less materialistic reason that a specific progress on international basis should be made towards limiting armaments.

As for Britain's share, it is recognised that acting independently of all international agreements Britain has made sweeping reductions in her armed forces during recent years.
On land she immediately cancelled conscription when the war ended and has since reduced her army. On sea in spite of Imperial commitments and duties in all parts of the world her forces have been reduced to an unprecedented extent.—British Wireless Service.

OPENING SCENES.

Elaborate Precautions at the Glass Hall.

Geneva, Yesterday.
The Preparatory Disarmament Conference opened at 11.15 this morning the Glass Hall being packed, Jonkheer, London (Holland), presiding. Remarkable precautions were taken, not a single car being allowed to be parked in the court yard of the Secretariat building which is usually full of cars. The street running parallel to the Hall was closed to the public who were excluded from the Hall.

Besides the United States the Soviet of Russia and 24 Governments were represented at the Conference.

Jonkheer London, in his opening speech, hoped that all delegates would cordially co-operate in the task of the Conference of forming a sub-committee to deal with the problems of security and arbitration.

M. Politis was elected Vice-President.

No Progress Made.

M. Litvinoff read a long statement asserting that no progress had been made in disarmament and expressing the views of the Soviet in favour of the destruction of all means of warfare.

GETS 3 ARMIES.

Cheng Chien Strengthens His Hand.

MAN OF NANKING NOTORIETY.

20,000 Former Hankow Troops Now Surrender.

Hankow, Yesterday.
Three armies corps—the 8th 35th and 36th—hitherto supporting the Hankow Government against the Nanking Government have passed under the control of General Cheng Chien, whose command is thereby considerably enlarged.

This has come about through negotiations between General Cheng Chien and General Ho Chien, who commands the Hankow forces now that General Tang Seng-chi has fled, in defeat, to Japan.

The negotiations have occupied some time but have not been concluded.

Yang Sen Mixed Up Too.

General Yang Sen also has a delegate in Hankow, who is discussing matters with General Cheng Chien with regard to the position on the Upper Yangtze, between Ichang and Shashi, and the representative hopes to arrive at a compromise.

Marshal Wu Pei-fu, the former super-leader of the Northern armies, is reported to be sheltering at Kwei-fu, but the Nanking Government has ordered his arrest.—British Naval Wireless.

Effect on Squabble.

The three Hankow armies (say 20,000 bayonets) which have now been taken over by General Cheng Chien for the Nanking Government are mostly in the south of Hunan province and along the Yangtze above Hankow. They did not suffer material casualties in the war with Nanking and their surrender was generally expected, this course being generally followed when one faction is crushed by another. Cheng Chien will be remembered as being in charge of Nanking when the Nationalists captured the city in March and foreigners there were subjected to a series of atrocities. He is squabbling with colleagues for power at Hankow and this surrender to him will strengthen his hands.

UP IN SHANSI.

"Christian General's" Finger in Shansi Pie.

Peking, Yesterday.

Reports from Taiyuan (the capital of Shansi province, which is at war with Peking) state that 2,500 men of the Kuomintang (the "Christian General's" army) have arrived there and established brigade headquarters, issuing a proclamation in the name of the Kuomintang that reinforcements for Shansi (against Peking) are expected at Niantzsekuan Pass shortly.

It is officially stated here that several telegrams have received from General Chang Tsung-chang from Hsuehchow declaring that all is quiet there, and proving that the Nanking Nationalists have not occupied the city.—Reuter.

AIR FORCE.

YEARLY BUILDING OF AEROPLANES.

NO INFORMATION!

Rugby, Yesterday.
Sir Philip Sassoon, Under-Secretary for Air, stated in the House of Commons, in reply to a question, that of the 755 aeroplanes possessed by the Air Force, none was built before 1919. He declined in the public interest to state how many were built in each year from that date.—British Wireless Service.

armament had progressed much further.

There is general relief in Committee and League circles at the satisfactory issue of the first day's deliberations.

The second reading of the draft of the disarmament Convention, at which the Russian plan is set down for discussion, will probably be taken in January. The present session of the Committee will probably conclude at the week-end.—Reuter

KOWLOON FIRE.

Four Houses Badly Damaged.

BRIGADE'S GOOD WORK.

Lad Rescued From Blazing Building.

Involving four houses which were well alight before the alarm was sent to the Fire Brigade, a blaze at Laiching Road, Kowloon, this morning did extensive damage to the buildings affected.

The alarm was given at 5.55 a.m. by telephone from the Shamshui Police station and appliances from Mongkok and Kowloon Fire station were quickly on the scene. The Mongkok appliance arrived within four minutes of the alarm having been given, and within another minute a district call message had been circulated.

Other appliances were then ordered to the fire, the large float from the Hong Kong Fire Station, with Mr. H. T. Brooks, Superintendent, Mr. G. C. Moss and firemen proceeding to the scene.

Fire Escape Rescue.

Very shortly after the arrival of the Mongkok appliance, the Kowloon Fire Station appliances arrived at the fire and with great promptitude a fire escape was slipped and ascended to the second floor of No. 62 where a youth of sixteen, with his escape cut off,

FINE—CLOUDY.

Weather Forecast For To-morrow.

The weather report issued by the Royal Observatory this forenoon stated:—

The anticyclone over China has weakened slightly.
Fresh to moderate monsoon may be expected along the S.E. coast of China and over the China Sea.

Forecast:—N.E. winds, fresh; fine to cloudy.

was in danger of being burnt to death. His rescue was effected by one of the Chinese sub-officers.

The four houses were well alight before the arrival of the Brigade and, in getting to work with their hose and motor pumps, the firemen concentrated on checking the fire from spreading to adjoining buildings. They were successful in their endeavours and from the time of their arrival the flames were held in check and no further damage was done.

Roofs Burnt Out.

The hold the flames had obtained before the alarm was given was such, however, that considerable damage had been done to the houses, the roofs of which were burnt out.

The range of four buildings involved (of three floors) covered a total area of forty feet and were used as shops and dwellings, the shops (rattan and cane ware) being on the ground floor. It was apparently among this inflammable material that the fire first started.

Within an hour and a half of the time of call a "stop" message was sent showing that the fire was well in hand and almost extinguished. The appliances, and most of the men were able to return shortly after 3 a.m., but a European sub-officer and a relief of firemen were employed during the morning in extinguishing smouldering ashes.

No One Missing.

The appliances used to extinguish the fire were a hydrant, three motor pumps, and fire float with a total of eight deliveries. No one is reported as missing from among the inmates of the burnt dwellings.

TO-DAY'S DOLLAR.

The closing rate of the dollar on demand to-day was 2/0 5/16.

HOW TIMES CHANGE.

Keeping on the Side of Winners.

IRONSIDES TAKE SHUING?

"Paperides" in Nanking Now Homeless.

Times are changing in Canton in a sense which is not generally known to foreigners.
Since getting into "power" by their recent coup, the Ironsides (mostly Cantonese troops) have broadcast "Support the Nationalist Party" views, and propaganda on these lines has gained them in important capture without having to fight for the same.

Crept Into Shuihing.
The doubtful elements, anxious to keep on good terms with the winning side, are now also pledged to give their all for the cause. In fact, a new faction can be said to have sprung up which, for convenience, can be called the "Party Supporters" faction.

The Kwangsi military faction has not recovered from the shock of the coup. They had several thousands of trained men concentrated at Shuihing, 30 miles above Canton, ready to make a stand. Now these men are withdrawing up the West River to Kwangsi; and Ironsides, advancing cautiously along the River banks, have appeared at Shuihing to take over control.

Anomalous Position.
General Li Fook-lun, whose troops in Honan are sometimes referred to as the "Paperides," is co-operating with the Ironsides as well as he has done with the many cliques before. However, his 16th division, which is at Nanking, supporting the Nanking Government, is in the anomalous position of being with a rival faction. Pleading "homelessness," this division now want to get back to Canton to rejoin their colleagues.

DEADLY GERMS.

REMARKABLE RESULT OF EXPERIMENTS.

LONGEVITY OF BACILLI.

Rugby, Yesterday.
The "Evening Standard" learns that a remarkable result has followed an experiment made with deadly germs by Sir William Simpson, Director at the Hospital for Tropical Diseases. Twenty-six years ago he placed in a test tube bacilli taken from a patient suffering from one of the most dreaded diseases. The tube was sealed, and for all those years has remained so.

Now Sir W. Simpson has devoted his attention to discovering whether the germs are still alive. To his astonishment he found them to be alive. A guinea pig was inoculated with them and, after showing the well-known symptoms of the disease, it died.

Further work is proceeding, it being recognised that in the light of such happening it may become necessary to revise completely the views previously held, on the longevity of bacilli.

It is said that the longest period recorded up to the present in which life has persisted in culture of this kind is one year.—British Wireless Service.

FIRE FROM SHORE.

"PARROT'S BEAK" CHANNEL AGAIN.

"WING ON'S" EXPERIENCE.

The bandits who have recently been giving trouble in the neighbourhood of "Parrot's Beak" Channel, the rather narrow part of the West River delta shortly after entering yesterday opened fire on the s.s. "Wing On" (captained by Capt. Mutton) as the Wuchow boat was on her return trip to Hong Kong. This was late last night.

The "Wing On" was not hit and no harm was done. The object of the firing is hard to determine. It can hardly be that the bandits anticipated the "Wing On" stopping for them to board her, and the probability is that they are merely making themselves troublesome in the hope that they may be paid for desisting—presumably by the owners.

The "Shing On" was twice fired on in this neighbourhood recently and two men were hit.

MORPHIA "DEAL?"

The Charge Against Foreigners.

TO-DAY'S EVIDENCE.

Cross-Examination Of Mr. Haynes.

At the resumption this morning of the case against James Christie and Christopher Blum, Mr. J. Haynes continued his evidence.
The telegram he referred to at the previous hearing, he said he saw in Christie's hand in his room at St. George Hotel. At the same time Christie produced another paper which purported to contain the decoded message.

He said that half way through the meeting on November 11 at No. 480 Nathan Road, prices were discussed, and Christie mentioned three different brands. Of these names he could only remember "Hok Nam," and he remembered Au Young saying that he preferred "Swiss."

Previous to this meeting Christie had given witness implicit instructions not to use his name at all but to simply use "Dear Jim" in all letters. Witness was to sign anything but his own name. He (witness) pressed Christie for a suggestion and Christie said "Call it Remington" (the typewriter). Christie also said that when he saw the Chinese he wanted the witness to appear as a French-Canadian, and he should pronounce his name as "Ray-ming-ton."

Witness heard the interpretation in Cantonese but did not understand what was said. He, however, remembered the English interpretation. Au said that $600 was too much. He said that he was likely to be a regular buyer and hinted that it would be to Christie's advantage to make the price for the first transaction as cheap as possible. Au said "It is to your interest to treat me liberally in this first transaction." In the discussion kilograms were the only measure of weight to be used.

Oil Suggestion Denied.

There was no mention of oil or cases at any time. Christie said that he would deliver at any address in Hong Kong but he absolutely debarred Chinese hotels. He also said that the drug would be brought ashore by a Japanese captain of a Japanese ship. Christie said that Au could ask anybody in the "business" in Hong Kong and he would find that "James Christie's" name was O.K. in any part of China. He had been doing business for 20 years. Christie added "This is a small matter. I have a transaction pending with Chinese in Canton involving $400,000." Christie then produced a receipt for a deposit of $100,000, saying that the money was deposited by Chinese military in connection with an arms deal. He offered the document to Au to read and see if that was good enough proof of his (Christie's) bona fides.

By Mr. King: Christie certainly agreed to supply morphia to Au. He said that it was too risky and unprofitable to bring less than 10 kilos. Au said that he would consult his partner and made an appointment for the following afternoon.

While witness was having dinner at about 9 p.m., Christie phoned him and the witness took Christie's words down in shorthand. It ran as follows:

"Sir James" and "Remington." "Remington?" and when the witness replied "Yes," Christie proceeded "Sir James speaking. Your man is good but I think he doubts me and has not sufficient faith in you as a guarantor. If he kicks at $1,000, suggest that he offers a little less. The fact is that I need cash for Blum's expenses. I have some cash on hand, I cannot spare 200 just at present as I don't know how much 'ready' I shall need regarding the other transaction. If we handle him properly, he will be a permanent man. Try, Cheerio." The witness reported the matter to the police, handing a typed detail of the matter to Sergeant Baker.

On the following day, Saturday, November 12, the witness met Au in the afternoon at 2.45 and they took a car to the house in Nathan Road arriving there at 3 o'clock. By Mr. King: At the interview on the 12th Blum did not take any part in the conversation. He sat a few feet away.

Another interview.
Proceeding, the witness said that both accused were present when he and Au arrived. Karin Din was

BOYCOTT EASES.

Trouble On The Upper Yangtze.

ONLY ONE FIRM AFFECTED.

Sequel To Refusal Of Passage To General.

Ichang, Yesterday.
The boycott here, which came into effect on Monday, by the lightermen, is not serious, as only one firm has been affected.—British Naval Wireless.

A Chinese general and his bodyguard wished to take passage on a British river steamer from Ichang down the Yangtze to Shashi, which is 83 miles below, Shashi being 287 miles above Hankow. Passage was refused by the British Senior Naval Officer of the Upper Yangtze, presumably on the master of the steamboat asking for his assistance.

A lightning strike and boycott was put into operation in Ichang, ostensibly in retaliation against the refusal.

Effect of Recent Troubles.

That part of the Yangtze above Hankow, between Shashi and Ichang, is the scene of continual troop movements. At present, General Yang Sen and other leaders are taking advantage of the recent diversion at Hankow to move down the River for what they can get. Most of these adventurers profess allegiance to the Nanking generals now in control at Hankow, but some of the defeated units formerly under the Hankow Government are trying to settle down here.

also there. There was no typist and no office boy. After shaking hands, Christie said "How about it." Au said that his partner was in Canton and would not be back until the following Tuesday or Wednesday night, and he was not prepared to make any deposit without his partner's consent. Christie said that he was disappointed as he had arranged for Blum to go to Shanghai via Swatow on the following morning and pressed Au for $1,000 saying "You are no good. If you really mean business you would not object about the $1,000. Most people would consider themselves lucky to get this cargo even if they had to deposit the full value."

Au still refused, and Christie said "Well, in that case, if you want me to keep Blum back for two days I must ask you to let me have $200 at once as proof of your good faith."

Au said that he did not have $200 on him, whereupon Christie said that Kay could go with him to his office and get the money. Au replied that it was not a question of paying $200, but, frankly, he thought he should consult his partner before doing anything at all.

Request For Loan.

During this interview Christie wrote a chit and passed it to the witness, it read "Can you let me have $10?" Although the witness had $80, he shook his head. Christie tore the chit and wrote another "I need cash badly. If we can get $1,000 out of this fellow, you can have $100." This chit Christie also tore up after the witness had read it.

Then witness and Au left.

"Papa Knows the Game."

The next morning the witness went to No. 5, Victoria Gardens at 10.30 a.m. Christie's room was open, but he was not there. On a table was a note in an envelope addressed to "L. Remington, Esq." It was in Christie's handwriting. The witness then went to Nathan Road and there he accused. The first thing said was that he was appointed that the $200 had not succeeded, add must now keep to the $1,000. Then Christie's witness "There are things I want to tell you of the man again as a witness, and please don't let me down. I don't want a second trial." He said "I want a motor car, a neighbourhood outside shops for your man is good and him yet, but it is taking me to get $1,000 out of him. I have $15,000 quids out of Australian in Manchester with more cargo in existence than I have dollars in my hands at the present moment. Papa knows the same my boy." (Continued on Page 6.)

NEW SPEED BOAT.

ACCIDENT OCCURS AT TESTING.

New York City, Nov. 22.
Disclosure of the successful testing out of a new long-distance speed boat came to-day almost simultaneously with an accident which may put the craft out of commission for some time.

The vessel is of the torpedo speed-boat type. It was designed by P. O. Hannes, well known plane designer.

On Sunday, it was revealed that those interested in the craft intended to send the "Fantail," as it is called, to San Francisco to race to Honolulu in an effort to break existing speed records some time during the winter or next spring.

Shortly after this announcement, however, the "Fantail" hit a log while speeding in Long Island Sound. Some damage was done. It will require extensive inspection to determine exactly how severe the damage was.—United Press.

PLAN OF NEW MANCHURIAN PORT.

Peking, Nov. 7.
The plan of the Mukden authorities to develop Hulan Island as a port (ice free), which undertaking is now definitely to be started, had been delayed because of considerations of conflict of interests with Japan. It had been also suspected that the plan was one in which Britain and America are interested, though it had been given out by the Mukden authorities that the object in view was the development of Manchuria and Mongolia.

Now that the Tahushan-Tung-liao and Mukden-Haicheng Railways have been completed, the construction of a port in Hulan Island is regarded as a matter of urgent necessity in order to afford an outlet for the goods carried by those railways.

The construction of the proposed harbour facilities will cost 30,000,000 yuan or more, and the enterprise has been regarded as rather too big for the Mukden authorities to undertake alone.

It has been suspected that the object of constructing the port is to check the forward policy of Japan in Manchuria and Mongolia. If the port is improved as planned, it will clearly become a formidable rival to Dairen, and the plan is regarded consequently as an obstacle to the Sino-Japanese negotiations in regard to Manchuria and Mongolia.

Hulan Island is situated off the Hulan Promontory, across the northern section of the Gulf of Pechili from the prosperous port of Newchwang—that is, at the entrance to Lienshan Bay. It is seven miles from Lienshan Station, on the Peking-Mukden Railway, and is connected with that line by a branch railway. It is an ice free port, with a considerable depth of water and giving ample room for anchorage. It has long been regarded as a valuable natural harbour, and Li Hung-chang, the great statesman of the Ching Dynasty, attempted to have the place developed as a commercial port, but without success.—"Osaka Mainichi."

COMMONWEALTH STEAMERS.

A London Comment.

The shipping journal "Fairplay" states:—"It, as has been reported, the Commonwealth Line had been unable to cover working expenses, leaving nothing for depreciation or interest, its transfer to a private company under the Commonwealth flag at a low value will not do much good. The line has been very well managed, and under existing circumstances and labour conditions it will either have to be continued as at present—which will probably happen—or be sold for what it will fetch without any restriction."

When the latest improvements—another seven and a half miles of quayage—are completed, Antwerp will be the largest port in the world.

SHIP SALE.

U.S. BOARD POSTPONES DECISION.

Washington, Nov. 22.
The Shipping Board to-day postponed its decision on the sale of its three remaining Pacific lines. A special meeting will be called probably this week to complete discussions on the proposed sale. The lines under discussion are the American, Australian and Orient, the American Oriental Mail and the Oregon Oriental.

Disagreement among the members of the board as to the period of operation of the lines—caused the postponement. The board's sub-committee yesterday suggested a compromise under which the lines would be advertised under two contracts, one calling operation for five years and the other for ten years, with the board accepting the bid irrespective of whether it was for the five or ten year period of operation. Members of the board said that the compromise was practically certain to be accepted.

President Coolidge desires to build up the merchant marine so that it will adequately serve as a second line of defence as well as for carrying cargoes to foreign ports, but he believes that it would be useless to suggest to congress again a subsidy such as was proposed during the Harding administration. He is studying other avenues with a view to the recommendation he will make to congress in December.—Associated Press.

NEW GERMAN LINERS.

Construction of the two new express liners to be added to the Bremen-New York service of the North German Lloyd is now well under way, and the vessels will be ready for service in the first half of 1929. They are to have a gross register of between 46,000 and 48,000 tons and will have a speed sufficient to enable them to make the run from New York to the Channel ports in five days. One of these new liners, the "Europa," is being built by the A. G. Weser at Bremen and the other, which is to be named the "Bremen," is being built by Blohm and Voss at Hamburg. News that work has actually been started on the two vessels is especially interesting in view of the various reports that have been in circulation to the effect that the company had decided to defer their construction and might revise the plans so as to provide for much smaller vessels.

CONSIGNEES' NOTICES.

FREIGHT WAR.

GOVERNMENT'S CHALLENGE TO UNION-CASTLE LINE.

Cape Town, Oct. 18.

The Government has flung down the gauntlet to the Union Castle Steamship Company in connection with the freight war between the Conference Lines and their competitors, in the form of a statement issued for publication.

This statement alleges that the action of the Union Castle Company in notifying shippers of wool and similar produce at South African ports that it is prepared to grant a freight discount of 15 per cent. providing that shippers contract to make all their shipments by vessels of the Conference Lines, not only constitutes a breach of law, but is in open violation with the terms of the Government mail contract.

The Government has accordingly notified the Union Castle Company that unless its offer is immediately withdrawn, it will have to consider giving 12 months' notice to terminate the mail contract.

Further, in order to protect shippers who decline to acquiesce in the "coercive demand" of the Union Castle Company, action will be taken under Clause 6 of the Shipping Combinations Discouragement Act of 1911 which would empower the Government to differentiate in respect of harbour charges on produce shipped in vessels belonging to the Conference Lines.

The exact method of differentiation has not yet been decided, but it will probably take the form of imposing on all produce shipped under the 15 per cent. discount scheme a surcharge at least equal to the amount of the discount allowed on such shipments by the Conference Lines.

Furthermore, the Government is considering introducing legislation to invest it with the necessary powers to penalise ships as distinct from goods.

BATTLE WITH GALE.

THREE OF CREW LOST OVERBOARD.

The American steamer "Antinous," 10,000 tons, docked at the Surrey Commercial Docks, last month, badly battered after a 72 hours' battle with an Atlantic gale. Three of her crew were carried overboard and lost by a wave stated to be over 200 feet high, while another member of the crew had a leg broken. The captain's launch, two of the lifeboats, and the fore part of the bridge were washed away in the gale, the boats were smashed, and the rails to starboard and around the bridge were hopelessly damaged.

Captain Duncan Stuart and his crew to-day showed signs of their struggle with the gale. The members of the crew were loud in their praises of the captain. "He worked like a Trojan," said one. "For three days he stayed out in the gale, keeping us going and seeing that everything was right. He nearly broke his heart when the boat and the two men went overboard. It was an awful blow for we had weathered the worst of it by then."

According to William Oldham, an able seaman, who saw the accident, the boat, Otto Rehben, and two seamen, James Boykin and Eric Carlson, were busy plugging ventilators to stop the water getting to the grain cargo when a huge wave crashed over the side. The boat's crew clung to a piece of timber, but although efforts were made to rescue him, the seas were so high that a boat could not be launched, and his comrades saw him washed off the timber.

When the vessel docked, officials of the company came to congratulate Captain Stuart and his crew upon their seamanship.

WRIT AGAINST SHIP.

DELIVERY OF CARGO CLAIMED.

Another writ has been issued in Adelaide against the American barquentine "Forest Friend," which is berthed in the Port Adelaide dock. Recently the crew issued a writ which claimed about $50 each for wages alleged to be due. The second writ, which was nailed to the mainmast to-day was issued in behalf of Water and Morris, Ltd., and Cowell Bros., Ltd., and claims delivery of the cargo or in the alternative $20,000, the value thereof, and damages for non-delivery and costs.

It is alleged that the cargo, which was loaded at Port Gambier, Washington, lies in the ship, and that the master has refused to unload or deliver it. Meanwhile the captain, officers and crew are hard put to it to live without money, and consignments of food are being sent to the ship by generous citizens.

VETERAN'S DEATH.

CAPTURE BY GERMAN RAIDER DURING WAR.

Captain Peter Connal, who was well-known in the Australian coastal trade as the master of several of the Adelaide S.S. Co.'s vessels, died recently at Balmain, New South Wales. Born in Greenock in 1876 he was reared among ships, and went to sea at an early age. After serving his apprenticeship in sail he joined the Mogal Line, which operated a fleet of cargo vessels sailing out of Glasgow to all parts of the world, and was chief officer in the "Yarrowdale" when that vessel was captured by the German raider "Moewe" in December, 1916. For three years he was a prisoner of war in Germany. On his release he returned to Scotland and was chief officer of the "Gertrude" when that vessel was purchased by the Adelaide S.S. Co. in 1921. He accompanied the "Merriwa" to Australia, and subsequently commanded the "Dikera" and the "Urilla." He left a widow and a daughter.

SHIP'S FAREWELL.

COLOMBO RESIDENTS CARRIED OUT TO SEA.

There was a rather remarkable incident in connection with the departure of the P. & O. steamer "Comorin" recently. It appears that two Ceylon residents, a lady and a gentleman, who had gone on board to bid farewell to some friends, were nearly carried out to Australia.

The visitors were below deck and were unaware that the bells had been sounded giving warning of the fact that the vessel was about to sail. The steamer put out to sea, and the pilot returned to the station. It was not till then that the visitors became aware that the ship was well under way. At 12.30 a.m. about a quarter of an hour after the pilot had returned the Pilot Station signalled to the Pilot Station that the "Comorin" was inquiring whether a boat could be sent to her. Fortunately one was available, and it went out and brought the two persons to the Pilot Station, where a launch belonging to Messrs. Carson and Co. was waiting and they were brought ashore. In consequence of the incident the "Comorin" was delayed almost half an hour.

In the District Court at Singapore before Mr. N. D. Mudie, a Japanese, Capt. R. Maisul, of the N.Y.K. steamer "Seiyo," was fined $250 for delaying delivery of mails on August 28.

Passengers and crew to the number of 150 were drowned through the foundering of a coastal launch, and it is feared that a similar number were lost through the capsizing of a ferry boat in the cyclone, says the Calcutta correspondent of the "Straits Times" in a message of November 15. The Bombay mail steamer for Africa was driven back to Bombay. Others outward bound were unable to enter the harbour.

A Hike, Then a Swim

To add to the pleasure and enjoyment of your voyage, that's why all President Liners have swimming pools. They are always available and are immensely popular.

The magnificent President Liners are broad of beam and exceptionally steady. All are oil burners, swift express liners. The public rooms are luxuriously appointed and inviting. All staterooms are outside, splendidly furnished and equipped with beds—not berths. Each room has hot and cold running water, also fans, wardrobe, thermos bottles and reading lamps. Private bath and showers in connection with many rooms perfect the travel comfort of these giant passenger liners. The Cuisine is world famous. The deliciously prepared menus will delight you. And how the orchestra adds zest to your dining. The decks are spacious. The Glass-enclosed Promenade always popular. Deck sports, open air swimming pool, movies, evening dances—everything has been done to make your trip a happy one. Unexcelled anywhere—is the courteous and efficient service accorded you by the trained personnel aboard the President Liners. The great frequency of sailings and the liberal stopover privileges of the Dollar Steamship and American Mail Lines have made these giant passenger liners outstandingly popular among travelers.

LIMITING ARMAMENTS.

The opening day of the Disarmament Conference at Geneva has not been without its sensation if we can place in that category the lengthy statement by the Soviet delegate who advocated the destruction of all and everything making for warfare. He has promised the support of Russia for every effort in the direction of disarmament, but Soviet promises and Soviet actions are not generally quite the same thing, as the other Powers have learned to their cost, particularly Great Britain, who has complained again and again of Moscow interfering in the domestic affairs of Great Britain and carrying on anti-British propaganda outside Russian borders. No question is more important, none more fundamental to the harmonious functioning of international relations upon that basis of co-operation and goodwill which is the avowed objective of all, and which—despite the views of the pessimists—may be represented as the general trend of diplomatic events viewed as a whole over the last few years. Yet the many disappointments and delays already experienced in discussions upon the question of disarmament, whether within or without the League, have provided the necessary corrective to any undue optimism which one might be tempted to voice regarding the present gathering. The best plan in following through the work of the present Conference at Geneva is to expect little; there is the less risk of disappointment.

The first reminder of this need for caution arises from the many points of difference revealed during ing the last session of the Preparatory Commission of the League. The problems confronting any body which seeks to limit naval disarmament may be grouped under two headings. First of all, it is necessary to decide what it is you are going to limit. Are you going to confine your limitation to capital ships or to cruisers, or to submarines, or are you going to content yourself with stipulating the maximum total tonnage? Secondly, having agreed upon the sphere of limitation, you have then to fix the ratio of limitation; in other words, you have to determine the relative strength of the naval armaments which will be left to the various countries which participate in the general agreement. The Preparatory Commission of the League at its last session never really advanced to this second question of the ratio. Obviously, the former is the more fundamental of the two problems, and in the discussion upon it in the Commission, a marked divergence of view appeared between Great Britain in particular, on the one hand, and France on the other. The British position was this: that in order to give real security by preventing surprises and putting an end to competitive building, it was necessary not merely to limit the total tonnage permissible to any particular country, but also to limit the naval strength "by categories." The British representatives argued that it was necessary that every country should be able to know exactly what the naval forces of another were in every particular respect—how many cruisers it had, what size each was, what guns it carried, and so forth. The French at first adopted the attitude that limitations should be confined to the total tonnage, individual Governments being allowed to distribute and arrange this tonnage as they saw fit. Eventually, however, after strong representations from the British, a compromise proposal was put forward by the French which would have accepted the principle of limitation by categories, but would have furnished no detailed information regarding the individual vessels within each category. This, however, failed to satisfy the British, and when the Commission adjourned its sittings until yesterday, the matter of naval disarmament was left in that very unsatisfactory position.

MORE ROBBERIES.

MESSENGER RELIEVED OF $3,500.

ALLEGED OFFER OF BRIBE.

A messenger employed in a Chinese shop was yesterday walking in Connaught Road Central with about $3,500 which was entrusted to him to deliver to another shop, when near the junction of Market Street he was stopped by three robbers who relieved him of the money.

After the theft the robbers ran up Market Street and disappeared. The money was partly in Hong Kong notes, whilst about $2,000 was in Canton National Bonds.

Later the Police arrested a man in connection with the robbery, and he will be charged in due course.

In From The Country.

Described as a musician, a Chinese was yesterday afternoon remanded by Mr. R. E. Lindell on a charge of stealing $335 from a pig dealer, and with offering a bribe to a Chinese detective who arrested him.

The pig dealer who had recently arrived from Kwongchow, had visited several local dealers and had collected a sum of money. His business being completed, he was walking in Des Voeux Road on his way to his boarding house when he was suddenly struck in the face, and simultaneously the money which he was carrying in his left hand, done up in a parcel, was snatched away from him. He chased the thief who was stopped by the Chinese detective, into whose hand the accused pressed a bunch of notes when he was seized.

Further hearing of the case was fixed for to-morrow.

CORRESPONDENCE.

STANLEY BARRACKS SITE.

(To the Editor of the "China Mail.")

Sir,—The leader in your to-day's issue makes very interesting reading, and I am sure that the general public of the Colony, regardless of nationality, will heartily endorse your statements in opposing the intention of the authorities to utilise, for the purpose of erecting an educational building, the site of the early barracks built several years ago for the 50th Regiment at Stanley.

The present residents of the Colony recognise full well the great debt they owe to those pioneers of old, and maintain the greatest esteem, admiration, and honour for the gallant men. It is directly against our self-respect to have such a place desecrated by anything, even the urge of progress!

Still, personally, I feel that to leave the place as it now stands is indeed a shame! The least we can do to express our gratitude and warmest sentiments to these heroes—for, indeed, such they were—is to have the place properly cleaned up, repaired, and to have it kept in good condition. A more elaborate memorial will not be necessary. Otherwise, there are monuments and shrines which have been handed down through centuries for passing generations to witness and to worship; why should we, in this outpost of Empire, not endeavour to do our utmost to safeguard from obscurity any befitting landmarks of our history? In this connection, there is no more a place which we should like to be preserved for posterity than the charming sacred spot at Stanley.

Either the Government must see that this is done, or the well-meaning citizens of this Colony must assume the task. I think that if one or two of our prominent personages will take the initiative, Hong Kongites will most wholeheartedly subscribe to the funds necessary for the carrying out of such an important duty.

Yours, etc.

SEIGMUND.

"THE BLUE TRAIN."

FAREWELL VISIT OF THE "QUAINTS."

Mr. R. B. Salisbury's "Quaints" will present "The Blue Train" at the Theatre Royal to-night and to-morrow night as two farewell performances. This musical comedy has had a most successful run in London and as brought out to the Far East by Mr. Salisbury has proved one of the most successful pieces ever staged in China.

The gorgeous dresses and new scenery of the production have been acclaimed as the best seen in the East, and these features coupled with the delightful music and perpetual humour of the piece, should ensure capacity audiences at the Theatre Royal for the two performances.

NEW BUILDINGS.

FURTHER FALLING-OFF LAST YEAR.

SPECULATION CHECKED.

The following appears in the annual report of the Public Works Department for 1926:

Works Under the Buildings Ordinance.

In comparison with the figures published in the annual reports of recent years a further falling off in the number of plans dealing with new buildings has to be recorded. The exodus due to the strike in 1925 automatically adjusted the shortage, in housing accommodation which had been acutely felt by the Chinese prior to that event; the resulting fall in rents and the number of houses standing untenanted have checked further speculation in building.

A few cases of reconstruction under the Rents Restriction Ordinance were dealt with early in the year, and on the 30th June this Ordinance lapsed.

There was an increase in the number of plans submitted for "non-domestic" buildings and also in the number of plans dealing with alterations and improvements to old properties.

Attention is drawn to a graph embodied in the report which is of interest as indicating the number of plans approved and houses certified during the past twenty-one years, and also the rise and fall during the boom in speculation in land and buildings during more recent years.

Plans.—The following is a tabulated statement showing the number of buildings, etc., for which plans were deposited during the year, the figures for 1925 being given in a parallel column for purposes of comparison:—

	1925.	1926.
Buildings	201	67
European houses	475	147
Chinese houses	171	180
Buildings and Structures other than the above	1,631	1,932
Alterations and additions to existing buildings	322	144
Verandahs	82	38
Balconies	9	35
Sunshades	0	0
Areas	4	9
Piers	51	56
Wells
Total	2,946	2,608

Supply Exceeds Demand.

As already pointed out, the year was marked by the practical cessation of speculative building in the Colony. Apart from local financial stringency, the supply of tenement houses far exceeded the demand and land owners generally evinced reluctance in fulfilling their building covenants. Many buildings, especially in the Kowloon district, remained in a state of semi-completion throughout the year, and in a number of cases measures had to be taken to remove portions of buildings rendered dangerous by continued exposure to the weather.

In cases, however, where owners were genuinely interested in building as an investment, Government rendered assistance by means of the Trade Loan, and towards the end of the year work was resumed on a great number of lots.

It is noticeable that there was an increase in the number of plans submitted under the heading "Alterations and additions." This was largely due to owners' expenditure on maintenance and improvements of old properties which, in more prosperous times, would have been demolished and rebuilt.

The number of plans deposited during the year was 1,874 as compared with 1,863 in 1925.

The number of plans approved during the year was 2,155 as compared with 2,035 for 1925.

Certificates.—The following Certificates for new buildings were issued:—

365 under Section 204 of Ordinance 1 of 1903, for 814 domestic buildings, of which 227 were European and 587 Chinese dwellings.

111 certificates were issued for 117 non-domestic buildings.

These figures show a decrease of 120 in the case of "Domestic" and an increase of 41 in the number of "Non-Domestic" Buildings.

Under the Rents Restriction Ordinance 6 Certificates (B.O. Form 91) were issued in respect of 5 houses in Hong Kong and 5 houses in Kowloon. This Ordinance lapsed on June 30, 1926.

Improvements, etc., to Public Streets.—The policy of requiring houses, when undergoing reconstruction, to be built at a higher level, where necessary, in order to provide for the future raising of certain low-lying areas in Hong Kong and Kowloon has been continued. In some cases arrangements were made allowing the ground floors to be retained at their existing levels, upon owners giving satisfactory evidence of the necessity.

LAND SALES.

ANOTHER BIG DROP IN REVENUE.

OFFICIAL FIGURES.

The annual report of the Public Works Department for 1926 states:—

Land Sales, Extensions, grants, etc.—The total amount of premia paid into the Treasury during the year was $325,569.79 of which $5,458.25 was derived from fees for boundary stones.

The estimate for the year was $500,000.

The revenue derived from land sales last year was:—

Sales by Auction	$30,370.50
Sales without Auction	55,761.18
Extensions granted	112,449.79
Grants on Nominal Terms	—
Grants on Short Leases	—
Extensions of Short Period Leases to 75 years	20,800.09
Premia derived from Sale of Rights to erect piers	1,280.00
Fees for Boundary Stones to define Lots	6,515.50
Conversions and Exchanges	94,334.20
Total	$321,511.17

Actual amount of premia paid into Treasury

$325,569.79

The totals of the premia in 1924 was $1,950,812.38 and in 1925 $581,160.88.

The difference between the above totals is accounted for by the payment of premium and interest in 1926, and of contributions to forming sewers, etc., in connection with certain transactions arranged during the previous year; and also failure to pay premium on transactions during 1926, refunds and re-adjustments.

Sales by Auction.—Three lots were sold in Hong Kong and two in New Kowloon which realised $24,960 and $1,905 respectively. No lots were sold in Kowloon during the year.

The District Officer (South) sold five lots which realised $376.00 and the District Officer (North) sold 164 lots which realised $3,129.50.

Sales Without Auction.—Six lots were sold under this heading in Hong Kong and realised $51,696.40. An additional sum of $24,930 on Inland Lot No. 2456 was paid in respect of permission being granted waiving certain special conditions of sale.

A sum of $5,000 being contribution towards forming sewers in respect of Rural Building Lot 200 was also received during the year. There was no sale under this heading in Kowloon. Only one lot was sold in the New Territories which realised $2,610.

The District Officer (South) sold seventeen lots which realised $268.60 and the District Officer (North) sold 58 lots which realised $1,186.18.

Extensions granted.—The extensions granted in Hong Kong comprised additional areas to Inland Lots Nos. 2352, 2353, 1946, 262, 2074, 1572, 2335, 2218, 2296, 2611, 2345, 156, 2425, and 2380 Sec. A, and R. P.; Marine Lot No. 289; Rural Building Lots Nos. 188, 250, 164, 202, 299, 302, 303, 304, 247, 309, and 67; Shaokwan Inland Lots Nos. 477, 608, and 500; and Aberdeen Inland Lots Nos. 101, 98, 66, 99, 43, 54, and 100.

In Kowloon, extensions were granted to Kowloon Inland Lots Nos. 1426, 1292, 2058, 1526, 1472, 1468, and 1652; Kowloon Marine Lots Nos. 46-96-95-28-and-27; and Hung Hom Inland Lot No. 256.

In New Kowloon and the New Territories extensions were granted to New Kowloon Inland Lots Nos. 818 and 615.

The District Officer (South) granted extensions to six lots and the District Officer (North) extensions to nine lots.

when the raising of the street is carried out.

Advantage has been taken in cases of rebuilding to require the frontages to be set back to conform to the approved lines of street widenings where such have been decided upon.

Typhoon and Hailstorm Damages.—The exceptional rainfall on the night of the 18-19th July resulted in an abnormal number of minor collapses, necessitating action being taken in no less than 100 cases.

The usual procedure was adopted in each instance, of inspecting and where necessary arranging for shoring.

In only a few cases was there need for tenants to vacate their premises.

Minor washouts occurred from private lots and lots under development. That these were not serious is in large measure due to the great precautions which are being insisted upon in the nature of pre-

ST. ANDREW'S DAY

Scenes At Last Night's Ball.

LAVISH HOSPITALITY.

Scottish Dances a Feature Of Programme.

Once again the City Hall last night was filled with local Scotsmen and their guests for the chief event of the annual celebration of St. Andrew's Day—the Caledonian Ball.

Although the attendance was large, the figures fell below those of many previous years and this enabled the dancers to enjoy to the full the excellent programme of dances which continued until an early hour this morning.

The scheme of decoration throughout the whole building was original and striking and bore witness to the arduous work put in by the members of the various committees who supervised it. The entrance was laurel draped with the St. Andrew's Cross flaming high above the door and inside the use of greenery had been cunningly employed together with various light effects.

In the two main dancing rooms clan shields and standards were hung together with crosses in white and blue whilst the dais was set in St. George's Hall in front of the portrait of Queen Victoria and beneath the Union Jack and the red and blue ensigns. A portrait of Robbie Burns held the place of honour in St. Andrew's Hall while pictures of Prince Charles and Sir Walter Scott were in the ante-room and tea room all of which, together with cosy sitting out places were most effectively decorated.

Greenock Scenes. The Theatre Royal, in which excellent arrangements for coping with the diners had been made, was decorated with a profusion of colours. The stage was admirably fitted out as the room of an old time inn, overlooking a street in Greenock, the home town of Chieftain Templeton.

Prominent in an "Auchtermuchty" was a picture of Prince's Pier, Greenock and other artistic reproductions and the general effect of the decorations here was very tasteful.

The card rooms, although not extensively patronised, were comfortably set out, in fact everywhere the utmost had been done for the convenience of guests.

H.E. the Officer Administering the Government received a ceremonial greeting on arrival, being met in the Baronial Hall by the Chieftain, Mr. D. Templeton, and the Committee and piped to St. George's Hall by the Pipe Band of the King's Own Scottish Borderers.

The dances (music being by the K.O.S.B. and Hong Kong Hotel bands), went with a swing and the beneficial effect of the Reel Club dances was to be observed in the polish with which various Scottish national dances were executed.

At 11 p.m. the official supper party made its way to the supper room preceded by pipers when the ceremony of passing round the quaff and ushering in the haggis was observed with enthusiasm.

Chieftain's Address. After the Loyal Toast had been honoured, the Chieftain, Mr. D. Templeton, addressed the guests as follows:—

Your Excellent, Ladies and Gentlemen, In the name of the Members of St. Andrew's Society Hong Kong, and on their behalf I offer a hearty Scottish welcome to you, our friends, who have honoured us by your presence to-night and I express our appreciation for your continued interest in our Saint's Day Celebration, which celebration has become a hardy annual, marking as it does, the opening of the Hong Kong Social Season.

We trust you will have full enjoyment and find the realisation fully equal to the anticipation.

As the years roll on (since 1881 as you may have observed on entry) it is becoming increasingly difficult to find subject matter for an address, as subject matter suitable to the occasion is getting a bit threadbare—resulting as it must in vain repetition somewhat boring to the listeners.

This does not seem an opportune time for speeches, those who have supped desire to dance and those who have been dancing desire to sup and in addition the delivery of a speech is, to me, a nightmare.

Therefore to avoid boredom I am introducing an innovation at this gathering and in the place of a speech I desire to give you a Toast which I trust will be received with enthusiasm by all.

CINEMA NOTES.

"THE SHOW" AT THE QUEEN'S TO-DAY.

A STRANGE ROMANCE.

John Gilbert and Renee Adoree, the stars of "The Big Parade," are together for the first time since that picture, in "The Show," the sensational romance of Budapest, which comes to the Queen's Theatre to-day as the feature attraction until Saturday.

These two famous stars play the central characters in a strange romance laid in a mysterious side-show on the outskirts of the "invisible city"—a sideshow of illusions, magic tricks and strange grotesques, with a "decapitation" illusion in which Gilbert has his head cut off in a "Salome" act.

The settings, including the grotesque sideshows, with their floating living heads, mermaids, "spider women" and other startling illusions, are realistic in the extreme. Whole blocks of reproductions of quaint Budapest streets are also presented. Gilbert plays a handsome tough who has a job in the side-show, and Miss Adoree a Salome dancer in the production. Lionel Barrymore is seen as "The Greek," a sinister gang leader, and Edward Connelly as the old blind man who eventually brings about an astounding climax.

HOOT GIBSON FILM.

Hoot Gibson essays a new role in his latest Western comedy, "A Hero on Horseback," which will be the feature attraction at the World Theatre from to-day to Saturday. Although he still retains his familiar garb of the land of cactus, cattle and cowboys, Hoot discards his bucking bronco for a swivel chair and a mahogany desk and becomes a banker.

However, there is more than a Western touch to the picture which embodies high comedy interspersed with thrills, suspense and human interest, the inimitable Gibson riding the crest of every scene and situation with his winning personality.

Ethylene Clair plays the leading feminine role opposite Hoot, while the venerable Dan Mason assists the star in lending laughs to the picture. "A Hero on Horseback" is a screen version of Peter B. Kyne's popular story, "Bread Upon the Waters."

"DANCING MOTHERS."

The new picture at the Star Theatre to-day is "Dancing Mothers." According to the story, one night, while dancing with her youthful fiancé, Kenneth Cob, Kittens Westcott started to flirt with Jerry Naughton, an understanding bachelor. Of course Kenneth became irritated, and the more he showed his annoyance, the more she continued. In despair, Kenneth appealed to Mrs. Westcott for help, and she set out to check-mate the persistent bachelor. But on meeting him, she too, fell deeply in love, and he with her. What happened? Did the daughter just resign or did she stay to contest her mother? How did the father take it? Did he try to bring his family together? "Dancing Mothers" is an adaptation of the stage success of the same name. Conway Tearle, Alice Joyce and Clara Bow are starred as the bachelor, the mother, and the daughter, respectively.

MISDIRECTED.

LETTER RECEIVED BY WIFE BY MISTAKE.

A butler-waiter employed at a club, who was alleged to have sent to his wife, by mistake, a registered letter intended for another woman, was summoned at the Marylebone Police Court for desertion.

The wife said that she earned her living in service, as her husband had not made a home for her. The letter referred to enclosed 35s. and, beginning "My own dearest Joan," ended "your ever loving Willie, till death." She immediately came to London and taxed him with it at the club. He replied that he was sorry and admitted that he had ruined her life. But he did not make a home for her. Giving evidence in his own behalf, the husband denied that he was carrying on with another woman.

The magistrate made an order on him to pay his wife 20s. a week.

Political vultures from all parts of China are casting covetous eyes on Canton, rival forces being at work to prevent hostile factions getting into power or approaching too near.

There are indications that help will be forthcoming for the Kwangsi Party in their attempt, if sustained, to recover control of the Canton Government from the Ironsides.

Military complications may affect the whole situation in the east of Kwangtung and several armies may soon threaten Swatow again.

The General in command at Kongmoon has declared his independence of Canton.

The Diplomatic Corps in Peking have held more than one meeting recently to discuss piracy, but no announcement has been made so far regarding the contemplated steps.
It is understood that the Ministers are still awaiting instructions from their respective Governments.

Commenting on the decision of the Government to develop Ipoh as the capital of Perak, the "Times of Malaya" urges that a suburban road system should be made before buildings are put in hand, to prevent profiteering in land. A sum of $200,000 has been voted for contemporary considers that, in view of the failure of the F.W.D.

The death occurred suddenly at Johore Bahru on November 20 of Mr. Thomas Dunk Bush, Financial
Assistant, Public-Works Depart-who was only 42 years of age, had been for 14 years in the Government service, in which, says the

as a most capable officer, and was held in the highest esteem. He was apparently in his usual health stood that death was due to food poisoning.

Tientsin, and a temporary scheme which will serve this purpose while the more elaborate work is being carried out are contained in a report submitted by a body of experts to the minister of the in-by him to the generalissimo with the strong recommendation that immediate steps be taken to put at least the palliative measures into effect at once.

After a lull for weeks, a number of Shanghai cotton mills have reopened. Mill owners decided to resume work following the settlement of the Wing On case. The seven agitators who instigated the strike in the Wing On mill were sentenced by the Provisional Court to 15 months' imprisonment, each.
Agitators are still trying to prolong the deadlock between mil-lowners and workers. Recently a dozen intimidators appeared outside the Woosung Mill with pistols and fired several shots at the workers but the mill was opened.

Restful Nights mean vigorous days

Sleeplessness is a sign of nervous debility. You need not suffer from weakened nerves if only you take care to strengthen your system with Sanatogen. Sanatogen infuses into your nerve-cells phosphorus and albumin which build up new strength and energy.

In an entirely natural way Sanatogen will conquer your sleeplessness and its consequences—fatigue, listlessness and depression—and you will soon enjoy restful sleep and all-day fitness again.

Miss Norma Lorimer, the well-known authoress, writes:

"I tried it (Sanatogen), as I have tried so many other things when I have suffered from sleeplessness and general debility, without expecting it to do me much good. Therefore I am more than pleased to have found at last the ideal tonic."

Sanatogen banishes your nerve troubles, renews your blood, strengthens and builds up your system into a solid and permanent fabric of health.

After playing in a goalless draw at Merton last Saturday, Charlton will be on their own ground against Kettering in the next round. At Coventry on Saturday, Bournemouth shared four goals; now they will receive Bristol Rovers. Durham drew 1-1 with Wrexham but have now lost (playing away) by 0-4; the winners, Wrexham, will be at home to Carlisle. On their own ground last Saturday, Crewe could manage only 2-1; on strange ground, they won 2-0 and will receive Stockport in the 2nd round.]

RESULT OF INTERPORT TRIAL GAME.

Another Interport Trial game was played on the H.K.F.C. ground yesterday, the Scots Guards playing a selected side. The game ended in a win for the selected side by six goals to two.

The game was well contested, the Guards having their share of the game in the open, but their forwards failed in front of goal. There will be no trial game next week.

R.A.F. V. DIOCESAN BOYS' SCHOOL.

The R.A.F. played a return match with the School at Happy Valley yesterday and took their revenge in winning by 10 runs. For the R.A.F. French took 4 wickets for 21 runs and Grist took 5 for 25.

A. T. Lee was the only boy who got going with the bat and he knocked out a meritorious 44. The R.A.F. score would have been much larger but for the excellent fielding of the school.

"ROSE" DAY.

RESPONSE TO APPEAL FOR RELIEF WORK.

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL.

Few escaped the vigilant eyes of the sellers of roses to-day on the occasion of the annual effort under the auspices of St. Vincent de Paul for the Poor of Hong Kong. For the second time since the inauguration of this annual "drive" for funds, Chinese ladies assisted in the sale of roses, and other helpers brought to the cause was most gratifying to the organizers.

The efficient arrangements, aided by an ideal day and the ready response of the public, should ensure a satisfactory financial result.

A very business-like system of direction and accounting centred in the Hotel Savoy, where Chev. J. M. Alves was in charge. Here, a constant stream of workers with "empties" was attended to and, after having partaken of hospitality provided by Mr. Alves, they were despatched to carry on the campaign with renewed vigour.

MORPHIA "DEAL?"

Haynes added that Christie then took hold of a hat and imitated Bottomley drawing his liberty bonds. He then asked the witness for Au's address, but he said that Au had told him he could always be found at his Club. After more conversation, Christie said "I will make a first class graft of you, yet. The whole act depends on knowing where to stop."

On the Tuesday afternoon, the witness returned from the College and found a sealed letter in his room. It was in Christie's handwriting. He (witness) communicated with the police and handed the letter over to Sergeant Baker, and on the latter's instructions he went to Kowloon alone. He went by bus and found No. 460 shut up. Then it occurred to him that it was "feeding time" and went the rounds of the restaurants in Nathan Road in search for Christie. He found Blum in the Bombay Cafe and together they went to Victoria Gardens where they found Christie.

"Trust Jimmie."

The witness then told Christie that he had had a very straightforward chat with Au but he was not a fool. He (Au) said that not even a prince would require $1,000 for a week's trip to Shanghai. Au wanted the cargo and was prepared to pay Blum's expenses, but he considered that $300 was ample. He had agreed on that figure if Christie would accept. Christie said "Bring him right along, and if he has another $100 in his waistcoat pocket trust Jimmie to get it out him. Then he (witness) went home and reported in writing to the police.

By Mr. King: Karni Din was not there on the day of the accused's arrest. There were only the two accused and a Portuguese girl who was the typist. She was told to go and have her tiffin.

In accordance with an agreement with the police, who were to come to the house at 12.15, a quarter of an hour after the witness and Au entered the house, the witness wrote a chit as follows "He (Au) has only $300 so don't waste time." He handed this chit to Christie immediately on entering and after reading it Christie nodded. The witness then said to Christie that Au was prepared to do business but would only part with $300 and asked Christie if he would accept it. Christie agreed. Then there was the question of a receipt. Christie wrote out a draft and asked the witness to type it. Then Au asked him (Haynes) to sign the receipt as a witness. Then the witness said "What about a stamp" and Christie wanted to send Blum out to buy one, but realizing that that would spoil the plans of the police who were due in two minutes, the witness said "maskes," whereupon Christie handed over five coppers for Au to buy a stamp later. After this was the sound of cars stopping outside, and Au taking three $100 notes from his pocket handed them to the witness who in turn handed them to Christie. Simultaneously there came a knock on the door and Christie put the notes in his pocket without having time to look at them. Christie then told Blum to open the door and C. D. I. Reynolds and the police came in.

By Mr. King: Before the witness typed the receipt, Christie told Au to keep in touch with the witness and he would hear from Christie when the morphia arrived. Christie repeated that he would deliver the drug anywhere except a Chinese hotel. It was agreed by Christie that this lot was definitely to be 10 kilos, but he said to Au "If you want more next time, can do."

Cross-Examination.

Mr. Leask (for the defence) then started his cross-examination of Haynes.

Mr. Leask's first question was what qualification Haynes had to describe himself as a school teacher. Haynes replied "Brains, I suppose."

Pressed for an answer, Haynes said that he had had experience which was recognised by the Board of Education.

Answering another question, Haynes admitted that he failed in the London matriculation examination. He proceeded to say that he was at Oxford when the war broke out and he ran away and joined the Army at the age of 16.

Replying to further questions Haynes said that he never did any Company promoting.

Mr. Leask: Do you know a man named Anever?—To my sorrow, yes.

Haynes proceeded to explain the circumstances under which he met the man. He said that he went home in 1921 and answered an advertisement of employment with investment inserted by Anever, and after the interview his father invested £2,000 in a firm called the Anglo-Chinese Trust and Mercantile Ltd., which was registered in London. The witness could not say if it were registered in Hong Kong.

Mr. Leask: Do you know a Humphrey and Denman Company?—Yes, it was run by Anever in the same place as the other firm.

Charge of Conspiracy.

Replying to another question, Haynes admitted that he was arrested on an alleged charge of conspiracy with Anever, and it cost his father £1,300 to get him out.

Mr. Leask: Were you convicted?—Yes, I got six months, but I appealed.

Asked the result of the appeal, Haynes said that the conviction which was by a jury was not upset, but his sentence was allowed to start from the time he was first detained by the police, with the result that he did only 17 days. Haynes added that the Lord Chief Justice said at the appeal that there was never any suggestion that he (Haynes) had received any of the money.

Experience in Shanghai.

Led by Mr. Leask to his residence in Shanghai, Haynes said that he was in journalism with the "Mercury" and left because he had a row with a Mr. Davis.

Mr. Leask: I suggest that there was a question of embezzlement?—Certainly not.

Haynes proceeded to explain that he wrote an editorial attacking the "China Press" and as the result of the row which followed he was dismissed.

He brought an action, but did not proceed with it because within 12 hours he secured a better job as sub-editor with Reuters.

First Meeting Recalled.

Coming to his first meeting with Christie, Haynes said that Christie sent a man named Knight to him and said that he (Christie) would like to meet witness as he knew some of his friends in England. Witness met Christie in his room at the Kalee Hotel.

Mr. Leask: I suggest that it was on your suggestion that you were introduced to Christie?—I deny that.

Haynes said in reply to another question that he knew the house at No. 10, Park Land, Shanghai, where Christie lived. He had been there only on five occasions to settle a cheque transaction. Christie had gone to his (Haynes's) comrade and he, alleged, in the guise of his friend had cashed a false cheque for $30. Haynes also admitted that he took a house in Avenue Haig where he lived for some time. He denied that he had asked Christie to share it with him.

Mr. Leask: About June 8 or 9, your bankers were the P. & O. Bank?—Yes.

And you had some trouble with them?—No, I never had even an overdraft.

Haynes, however, admitted that he had issued one post-dated cheque, but that was paid.

Replying to a suggestion by Mr. Leask that he had borrowed $450 from Christie to start an account with the American-Oriental Bank, Haynes described it as "fiction."

Mr. Leask: At this Christie refused to give you the money, as he said that he was going to Slam?—Pure fiction. He disappeared suddenly from Shanghai and no one knew where he went.

Mr. Leask: Do you know that Christie has a mining concession in Slam?—No.

You say it is fiction. If I produce the deed would you admit it?—I am not saying it is fiction. I don't know if he has one or 20 concessions.

Mr. Leask: When Christie refused to lend you the money you said "I will never forget this, I thought that we were friends."

Haynes: That is pure fiction. Asked how he met Christie in Hong Kong, Haynes said he was in the King Edward Hotel with the late Mr. Frank Lammet when Christie came in the company of Mr. R. H. Charles and a lady, and Christie nodded to the witness.

Mr. Leask: I suggest that you nodded to him first?—We both nodded at each other.

At this stage the Court rose for the tiffin interval.

KINNOULL DIVORCE.

EARL'S SUIT WITHDRAWN IN EDINBURGH.

In the Court of Session at Edinburgh, mention was made of the Kinnoull Divorce case. An action of divorce is pending at the instance of Miss Margaret Countess of Kinnoull, of Portman-square, London, against her husband, the Earl of Kinnoull, of Balhousie Castle, Perthshire.

The Earl later brought an action of divorce against the Countess, but later lodged a minute of abandonment, in terms of which Lord Murray absolved the Countess from the conclusions of that action and by consent found no costs due to or by either party.

It was stated that the petition against the Earl was proceeding.

"LIBERIA'S BIT."

COURAGEOUS DEFIANCE OF A U-BOAT.

STIRRING STORY.

"There is a common tie and bond of sympathy between Great Britain and Liberia dating back to 1847," said His Excellency the Hon. Charles Dunbar King, the coloured president of the republic, before his departure from Liverpool after his tour of Britain. "Liberia eighty years ago joined the comity of nations and has largely been called upon to shape her destiny alone," he added. "I believe Great Britain does not comprehend the progress Liberia will make in the next fifty years. I believe West Africa will become one of the main trade centres of the world."

The President recalled a stirring incident during the war, in which the loyalty of Liberia to the Allies was put to the test. "One morning," he said, "a German submarine appeared in the harbour, and her captain and some of the crew came ashore. He said, 'Your allies have deserted you, as they have all small nations in time of need, and we are assured you will get no assistance. We ask you to comply with our demands to hand over all British and French subjects, to dismantle the French wireless station, and to hand over the Bank of West Africa.'"

"We got into communication with Washington and London and received the reply that no immediate assistance could be sent," continued the President. "We were absolutely defenceless, but we gave an emphatic 'No' to the German captain. I said, 'We will not deliver up our allies; do your worse. Here is our city; we will die with honour.'"

The President added that the captain returned to his ship, and fire was opened up from the submarine with the object of wrecking the wireless station. All the women and children were sent up country for safety, but the casualties included a mother and her two little children, as well as the intervention of Providence a British warship, commanded by Capt. Yardley, appeared and shortly afterwards engaged the German craft, which disappeared beneath the surface.

AIR PORT CASHIER.

DEATH OF MR. F. W. A. WARMAN.

Karachi, Oct. 23.—The death occurred here on Saturday night of Mr. Frederick William Arthur Warman aged 48 years, cashier and accountant of the Armstrong Construction Co., who are carrying out the construction of an airship shed at Karachi Air Port. Deceased was a well-known Christian Scientist with a large circle of friends.

The funeral took place this evening and was attended by several air ministry officials and the employees of Armstrong Construction Co. Dr. Mark Salisbury conducted the burial service according to the Church of England rites, after which a special Masonic service was conducted at the graveside.

The late Mr. Warman recently became a Freemason and was present at the annual installation of the Chapter Hope on Wednesday last.

In deference to medical advice he booked a passage to England on Friday and was due to sail from Karachi to-night. Cerebral malaria has been certified as cause of death.

CABIN BOY TO MAYOR

HONOUR FOR NORWICH REPRESENTATIVE.

Following a recent decision of the Norwich City Council to pay a salary of £400 a year to its Lord Mayors, Alderman H.E. Witard has been designated to that office for next year.

Born at Norwich, one of a large family, Mr. Witard was left fatherless at six years of age. The circumstances of the household were such that he had to leave school at the age of twelve. A year later he was cabin boy on a Yarmouth fishing-smack.

Mr. Witard was the first Labour representative to sit on the Norwich County Council, and he has twice unsuccessfully contested Norwich as a Parliamentary candidate in the Labour interest. He is the local manager of the Co-operative Insurance Society.

The system now prevailing in Norwich is that the three parties—Conservative, Liberal and Labour—alternate in filling the offices of Lord Mayor, Sheriff, and Deputy Mayor.

YOUNG PEOPLE.

BETTER TO-DAY THAN IN THE PAST.

"Young people have got their freedom, and I think they will use it properly. They are not thinking what some of us think they are thinking."

Lady Asch made this statement in an address to the Women's Federation at Grimsby. She said she thought that young people of to-day, although they did not go so regularly to church and chapel, were a good deal better generally than people of the past who did. The trouble was that the elders too often thought about things that their children never even considered.

THE WORLD OF BOOKS

"NO DIVIDING LINE."

LITERATURE AND THE PRESS.

Mr. A. E. W. Mason, the novelist, responding to the toast of "Literature and the Press," at the thirty-third annual dinner of the Readers' Pensions Committee at the Holborn Restaurant, said there really was no dividing line between the two in the present time, and he doubted if there ever was such a division.

Addison, Steele, Swift, and others all wrote in periodicals before those writings appeared with in the covers of a book. There was supposed to be a certain permanency in real literature, but who was to lay down the law about permanency?

"The idol of one generation is the derelict of the next and may be the idol of the third generation. I think it is interesting to speculate whether the man scribbling histories of pirates and criminals and dropping in between books like 'Robinson Crusoe' and the 'Plague of London,' realised that he was going to live among immortals. I am pretty sure Defoe did not care. 'I do not believe for a moment that those old sailor-men who went from Falmouth, Penzance, and Plymouth knew when they were writing up their logs on the Spanish Main that they were going to be acclaimed hundreds of years afterwards as masters of the English language.'

"I doubt of the man writing in the wings of the theatre, sometimes plays of his own, sometimes touching up plays by other people to keep the Globe Theatre going, knew, or very much cared, that three or four centuries afterwards he would be acclaimed as the very wonder of English literature. 'All we can say is that so long as men are driven to work in the effort to clothe with the dignified beauty of the English language their ideas and their notions and their emotions, so long literature will be alive and will be honoured.'

HILLAIRE BELLOC.

GIFTED WRITER WITH WIDE KNOWLEDGE.

In Hillaire Belloc we have one of the most ardent sons of another great religious community—the Roman Catholics. A gifted writer with a wide knowledge and an imagination, that is akin to inspiration, he has throughout his public life warmly espoused the claims of his faith. And with tongue as well as pen; for he is a brilliant talker, with the conviction of deep sincerity borne upon his every sentence. Even so, he has found time to indulge extensively in authorship upon historical, military and other subjects, and for four years he was a member of Parliament.

As long as 1910, he retired from the House of Commons—where, to be candid, he was not the success his friends had expected him to be—and has devoted himself to literature, of which no small part has been dedicated to his religious beliefs. At the age of 57, he has an output equal in quality (and in most cases in quantity) to that of any other first-class British author. His versatility is indicated by his inimitable "Cautionary Tales" where, in the fate of Henry King, who came to an untimely end through chewing bits of string, is set down as a warning to children who do not consider breakfast, dinner, tea and supper sufficient for the human frame!

PLANT LIFE.

NON-SCIENTIFIC READER STAGGERED.

In recent science there has been no more fascinating research than that pursued for many years by Sir Jagadis Chandra Bose, first at the Presidency College, Calcutta, and afterward at the Research Institute he has himself founded in the same city. His latest volume, entitled "Plant Autographs and their Revelations," records discoveries that are enough to stagger the non-scientific reader. Its author has localised the "heart" and "nerve" of plants, he has wounded them in order to learn how wounds retard growth, he has observed how they respond to the stimulus of a thrashing, he has measured by means of

"AUTOCHTHONIC."

AMERICA'S CRAZE FOR NEWNESS.

VIEW OF MR. NOYES.

Mr. Alfred Noyes, the poet and author, who has already been fourteen times across the Atlantic, has left London for another lecture tour in Canada and the United States. He was accompanied by his wife, whom he married only two weeks ago. The lectures will be on "The Bond of Literary Union." At Waterloo, before he left, he talked of America and the Americans, a country and a people he knows intimately.

"Americans are awfully kind," he said, "but they suffer from the illusion that there is a new country and they are always insisting on its newness. For instance, I was walking over the Sussex Downs with an American the other day, when he noticed a barn with a pretty mellow coloured roof. 'Ah!' he said, 'what a fine old barn. That is the kind of thing we haven't got in our country.' 'Why not?' I asked. 'Because it is too young,' he said. 'I saw that barn built. It is only about fifteen years old.'

"They are trying to make their literature 'new' as well, and cut it off entirely from Europe. Not even the Declaration of Independence could do that. They even say their literature must be autochthonic. When I heard that I looked up the word to see if it had been made in Kansas, but I found it came from the Greek and meant 'springing from the native soil.' No literature has ever been entirely free from the influence of other countries. You cannot produce a branch without the parent tree, and if it had not been for the influence of the classics and so on, there could not have been an American literature.

"They are doing some extraordinary good work in America, and producing first-rate poetry. But the men who are doing it are those whom America does not recognise, like J. Hall Wheelock, who wrote 'Black Panther.' There is a lot of twaddle too, and this is hailed as really great poetry. This is another proof that the United States is just like any other country. Even their language was made in Europe."

Mr. Noyes said he found a great difference between Canada and the States. "They have an imperial vision, and I think they are more patriotic in Canada than we are in England. Their literature is different. One of the finest war poems—

If you break faith with those who die,

We shall not sleep though poppies grow in Flanders fields, was written by a Canadian, Colonel John McCrae.

"There is great hope for the future in Canada and the United States. Over here there are too many people with jaded literary palates, who cannot appreciate good wholesome fare, but have to be tickled and scorched with highly-spiced dishes—people who want mustard and hot brandy. 'Roast beef' literature has always been the best—Chaucer was roast beef literature, and so was Shakespeare."

delicate instruments their fatigue when they are overworked, and he has even made a plant drunk. He remarks that the ludicrously unsteady gait of this plant when intoxicated "could, no doubt, be effectively exploited in a temperance lecture."

As a result of these experiments he has reached the conclusion that plants, instead of being less sensitive than human beings, are in many respects more sensitive. Indeed, in the light of his discoveries, one becomes inclined to attribute an almost human personality to plants, especially when in some of his chapters one happens upon such subheadings as "Death under Chloroform," and "Plant Scolded to Death," or when one reads that "Mimosa is a late riser."

In an appendix Sir Jagadis Bose suggests that India, though her habit of mind, is peculiarly fitted to realise the idea of unity, and to see in the phenomenal world an orderly universe. And certainly this volume makes one increasingly conscious of a mysterious unity of life that embraces plants as well as men and animals.

BOOK GOSSIP.

"QUEX" WRITES OF NEW YORK LIFE.

Few men can have had more varied opportunities for studying life in great cities than "Quex" of the "Evening News." His comments on men and manners interest and amuse thousands of readers every night, and we suspect that his "Who Told You That?" feature is responsible for most of the next-day luncheon anecdotes inflicted upon us. Recently "Quex" visited every one and everything worth visiting in New York, and he has recorded his impressions of American social and business life, politics, horse shows, night clubs, and a host of other things in "New York, by Quex," which Messrs. Stanley Paul will publish in the early autumn.

The opening of the 226th Annual Commencement Week at Yale was marked by the production of Shakespeare's "Coriolanus" in the new Harkness University Theatre. "Record is lacking of any production of 'Coriolanus' since 1911," says a special to the "New York Times" of 18th June, "when Mrs. Siddons, in her last year on the stage, headed a company which played it in Covent Garden London." In connection with the above, it is interesting to note that Dr. Horace Howard Furness, Junr., has just completed five years of continuous labour on "Coriolanus." This, the latest volume in the New Variorum Edition of the Works of William Shakespeare, will be published in the autumn by J. B. Lippincott Company. The New Variorum Edition, begun by the famous Shakespearean scholar, the late Horace Howard Furness, and continued by his son, now numbers 20 volumes, including two volumes of "Hamlet."

On October 18 Messrs. Allen & Unwin published the long-looked-for detailed biography of Bismarck, by Emil Ludwig. "Bismarck: the Story of a Fighter" is uniform with Ludwig's famous "Napoleon" and the price is 21s. net.

The first to appear of the four new volumes in the Whitehall Series, promised by Messrs. Putnam this autumn, is "The Treasury," of which the author is Sir Thomas Little Heath, K.C.B., K.C.V.O., F.R.S. As in the case of the previous volumes in this series of Popular Handbooks, the author gives first and foremost a plain description of what his Department is, and what it does, its place in the British system, and its relations to the other public departments and to the Civil Service. Sir Thomas was Joint Permanent Secretary to the Treasury, 1913-1919, and has been Comptroller-General of the National Debt Office since that date.

"Profits and the Pan," by Hugh Tuite, 3s. 6d. net, issued by the Gregg Publishing Co., Ltd., is a helpful, thoughtful and stimulating treatise, invaluable to the professional journalist, the free lance and all who wish to acquire the art of writing for the press successfully. The book is full of interest, which is sustained throughout every chapter each of which reads with the interest of a novel.

"Murugan—The Tiller," by K. S. Venkatramani, is the latest book from the pen of the well-known author of "On the Sand Dune," and "Paper Boats." Simpkin, Marshall have just published the book at 7s. 6d. net. It will give the English reader a better insight into the Hindu mind, and a better appreciation of the Indian social point of view.

Chapman & Hall have just published "Menageries, Circuses and Theatres," by E. H. Bostock, illustrated, 18s. net. Mr. Bostock gives the story of his menagerie from its beginning till its triumphant success, and has innumerable stories to tell about misadventures with animals, fires and other disasters. The book is not to be regarded as a theatrical history. It is as full of exciting stories as any book of adventure.

Cassell's have just published "Life, Journalism and Politics," by J. A. Spender, in two volumes, at 42s. net the set. The book is rich in varied interest. It is informed by an intimate knowledge of the currents of thought in political circles, and it abounds in appreciations of celebrities in politics and journalism and literature. In all these personal sketches there is what may be called the Spender touch—an unfailing urbanity of tone and an appreciation of points of view different from the author's. The author relates his adventures in Egypt as a member of the Miller Commission, and records the impressions of America he received during his visit to Washington to attend the Disarmament Conference. A chapter on India contains glowing passages which show how deeply he was moved by what he saw in the course of his journeys in that great Dominion.

BISHOP AZARIAH.

DRAMATIST, SOCIAL RE-FORMER, & UNIFIER.

INDIAN'S CAREER.

Basil Mathews writes in "Overseas":—

At Lausanne in August a brown, athletically built Indian, whose black hair, clear eye and vigorous speech bore all the marks of youth, challenged Archbishops and Bishops, Metropolitan and Moderators, to take strong decisive steps towards unity.

This man, Dr. Vedanayakam Samuel Azariah, the first Indian ever to be raised to a Protestant bishopric, is the grandson of a Hindu merchant. His father, becoming a Christian, was ordained a clergyman and worked for the Church Missionary Society. Bishop Azariah blends the energy, critical spirit and sturdy judgment of his business forebears with a strong vein of mysticism and a social enthusiasm for the oppressed and outcastes.

A graduate of Madras University, he won his spurs young as Secretary of the Student Christian Movement in India, and as Secretary of the National Y.M.C.A. there. Wide travel and meeting with people of many and varied types broadened and strengthened his experiences. First he went to Japan, to represent India at the World Conference of the Student Christian Movement, and then west and north to the World Missionary Conference at Edinburgh, where the writer first fell under the spell of his reasoned and convincing power of speech.

In the next year, the step that then seemed so sensational took place. He was consecrated Bishop of Dornakal. Many prophets of disaster shook their heads in pessimistic warning: "An Indian cannot administer a diocese"; "White men and clergy will not work under him." The amazing triumphs of the next few years routed these Jeremiahs of ecclesiastical inter-racial woe.

TICKLING THROAT.

Did you ever have that nerve-racking experience caused by a bit of mucus or phlegm that stubbornly refuses to be dislodged, but tickles and tickles until it sometimes almost strangles? Just a few sips of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, swallowed very slowly and allowed to glide down the throat, will stop that tickle and at once give you immense relief. Try it that way too for hoarseness, bronchial and other coughs. For sale everywhere.

In the years between then and now, the Christians in his diocese have risen from 50,000 to between 150,000 and 200,000, with to-day 10,000 new converts on the average coming in each year. An enthusiast for education, Bishop Azariah has secured in that period the training of over 1,500 Indian teachers. No less than ninety despised outcastes have been trained, equipped and ordained for the ministry. European missionaries entirely controlled the pastoral work in those days. To-day Indian priests preside over parish and district councils, leading up to a diocesan council, over which Bishop Azariah himself is chairman.

His greatest achievement lies in the miracles worked among the despised outcastes. He has himself demonstrated the baseness of the sweeping critical generalisations often made against Christian servants in India. The remarkably changed attitude of the Soudras, the caste people, for whom the outcastes work as agricultural labourers, is a clear evidence of this kind. Dr. Azariah says:—

The most unqualified tributes to the power of the Gospel have come to me from the Soudras, who have observed the change in the habits and characters of their Christian farm labourers. Some of the bitterest enemies of Christianity have become its staunchest friends after the conversion of their own servants. Instances abound of landlords who have given higher wages to Christian labourers because of their honest work, and of others who come to the Christian Harvest Festival because of a genuine interest in the worship of their Christian dependants.

"There is a village where the caste people for over six years have worshipped no idols, have offered no sacrifices and have observed no Hindu festivals. 'We offer prayers and praises to your God only,' they said recently to the pastor. Many of them have given up drink and foul language through the example of their Christian serfs. 'We are ashamed to do this now,' they said, 'when we see these people living clean and respectable lives!'"

Bishop Azariah wears no Occidental episcopal gaiters, but goes normally in a simple purple cassock, Eastern in its origin. He goes among his people singing religious lyrics and songs, the thousand-year-old traditional method of popular teaching in India. He has himself written dramas of the stories of Amos, Jeremiah and St. Paul. These plays, reinforced with music and costume, bring home even to outcastes who cannot read, the essence of spiritual truth.

And the power of his personality and his plea for unity at Lausanne, as on many platforms in England this summer, is immensely reinforced by the fact that he stands a strong, sane, Nationalist Indian Christian leader who asks the West why it should impose its ecclesiastical divisions on the East, and in doing so challenges those divisions with a subtle and penetrating eloquence in their own home—"Overseas."

LONDON UNIVERSITY

SOME NEW PROFESSORS THIS TERM.

Although the title of professor is less exalted in England than in Scotland, the arrival of a new professor or the elevation of an assistant to the status of professor is regarded as something of an event on both sides of the Tweed. This term there are four new professors in London University. One, a woman, and an Aberdonian, Miss D. L. Mackinnon, takes the Chair of Zoology at King's College. At one time (1908-9) she was Assistant to Professor J. A. Thomson at Aberdeen University. She has taught at University College, Dundee, and since 1919 has been on the Zoological staff at King's College, London.

Professor E. H. Kettle goes to the Chair of Pathology at Bart's. He was a student at St. Mary's Hospital. He has taught at St. Mary's and at the Cancer Hospital. His first Chair was that of Pathology and Bacteriology in the Welsh National School of Medicine, Cardiff, which he held from 1924 till he came to London again this term.

Dr. Bronislaw Malinowski, of Cracow, who has been Reader in Social Anthropology since 1923, has been appointed Professor of Anthropology at the School of Economics. His original work has been mainly concerned with savage society.

Dr. A. W. Reed, of King's College and of the School of Economics, has had conferred on him the title of Professor of English Language and Literature.

DEAD SEA SALTS.

Control In British Hands.

TERMS OF CONCESSION.

Home Taxpayer Not Expected To Invest.

Rugby, Yesterday.
A question was asked in the House of Commons whether, in view of the value of the Dead Sea salts concession to the British Empire, the Government would take steps to ensure that the control remained in British hands or whether the Government would obtain a controlling interest by the purchase of shares?

Mr. W. G. Ormsby-Gore, Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, said that it had been decided in principle to grant the concession to two persons based on their joint option, provided that suitable terms and conditions were agreed upon with them, and that they furnished satisfactory financial guarantees.

Negotiations on these points were still proceeding. There was no proposal that the Government should obtain a controlling interest by the purchase of shares in any concessionary company.

The process of getting these salts and marketing them made the whole business experimental and necessarily speculative, and he did not think it advisable to ask the taxpayer to invest money—certainly not at this stage—in an enterprise of this kind.—British Wireless Service.

TELEPHOTOGRAPHY.

SERVICE BETWEEN BERLIN AND VIENNA.

"PICTURE TELEGRAPH."

Berlin, Yesterday.
Telephotography is being officially inaugurated to-day when photos or papers in colours, except green, blue, and mauve, may be handed to the Post Office for telegraphic conveyance to Vienna. The paper to be transmitted must not exceed 4 inches by 7 1/2 inches on which it is calculated 400 printed words may be transmitted.

The original message is placed on a "picture telegraph" machine and reproduced within a few seconds on a film receiving apparatus at Vienna, where the film is developed and the print delivered to the addressee, like a telegram. Any kind of message is thus transmissible, for example, letter in Chinese characters. The official at the Post Office does not trouble to count the words in it, but will charge the sender according to space.—Reuter.

SINGAPORE BASE.

ESTIMATED COST OF DEVELOPMENT.

SETTLEMENT'S DEFENCES.

London, Yesterday.
In the House of Commons, in reply to questions, Mr. W. C. C. Bridgeman (First Lord of the Admiralty) said that $7,750,000, the estimated cost of developing the Naval Base at Singapore, did not include the cost of the military and air defence of Singapore. He understood that the latter was still being considered, but anyhow it was a question for the War Office and the Air Ministry.—Reuter.

PROHIBITION.

FINANCIAL CAMPAIGN FOR REFERENDUM.

$3,000,000 TO BE RAISED.

New York, Yesterday.
A financial campaign for $3,000,000 (gold) for a referendum on Prohibition was launched by the National Association against the Volstead Act at a dinner attended by numerous bankers and business men.—Reuter's American Service.

PARALYSED!

WATERSIDE MEN'S DECISION.

P. & O. Steamer To Be Tied Up At Sydney.

Melbourne, Yesterday.
Hopes of a settlement of the waterside workers' dispute have been disappointed. The waterside workers refused to accept the owners' terms and a paralysis of shipping all over Australia appears inevitable.

None of the cargo of the P. & O. vessel "Malaja," which arrived from London this morning, was unloaded. The vessel will probably go to Sydney, where she will be indefinitely tied up.

The Commonwealth lines, the Tasmania passenger service, and the Patrick Company's inter-state cargo service are at present exempt from the trouble.

At Sydney a number of vessels is laid up.

At Brisbane, Hobart, and Fremantle the waterside workers have refused employment on the terms of the arbitration awards, including overtime work. The waterside workers of Sydney definitely decided not to work overtime.

Another Chance.

Sydney, Yesterday.
The waterside workers here refused to work to-night, thus holding up inter-state and overseas steamers.

The owners are giving the men another chance to-morrow. If it is not accepted the owners declare that they will tie the vessels.—Reuter.

TEAPOT DOME CASE.

INTERFERENCE WITH A JURY.

New York, Yesterday.
Mr. Harry F. Sinclair has been served with a citation for criminal contempt of Court in connection with interference with the jury in the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy trial.—Reuter's American Service.

OPIUM CONVENTION.

RATIFIED BY ONLY THREE NATIONS.

Rugby, Yesterday.
In the House of Commons Sir Austen Chamberlain, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, stated that, besides Great Britain, only France and Poland had ratified the Geneva Opium Convention of 1925. The ratification by Great Britain covered all parts of the Empire other than Canada and Irish Free States.—British Wireless Service.

DEMENTED FATHER.

CHARGE OF KILLING SICK DAUGHTER.

FORMAL EVIDENCE IN COURT.

There was a sequel in Mr. W. Schofield's Court at Kowloon yesterday afternoon to the case in which a Chinese seaman living in Canton Road was alleged to have murdered his 15-year-old daughter in a fit of depression over the fact that the girl had been very ill for a long time. During the girl's illness, the father ate and slept little, and then one evening whilst the girl and her mother were asleep, the father was alleged to have cut the girl's throat with a razor and then slashed his own throat in an attempt to commit suicide. They were both taken to the hospital where the girl died soon after admission, but the father recovered. The father was yesterday charged with wilful murder of the daughter.

Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith, Assistant Crown Solicitor, appeared for the Crown, and after outlining the circumstances of the case which were already brought out at the inquest on the girl, suggested that the only explanation was that the accused's mind had become deranged through worrying about his daughter's health, his affection and anxiety being the cause of his temporary insanity. It was also stated that when the accused was examined at the Government Civil Hospital by Dr. Valentine, the latter found that the accused was "out of his mind and violent." Accused became "rational" only after three or four days in the hospital. He was now sane. After the Magistrate had heard formal evidence, the case was adjourned.

ASTOUNDED!

Morgan Loan For Japan.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT.

Minister Replies To Yang Yu-ting's References.

Peking, Yesterday.
Baron Yoshizawa, the Japanese Minister to Peking in a statement to foreign correspondents, said that he was astounded at General Yang Yu-ting's references to the Morgan loan.

Japan was perfectly entitled to raise money abroad when she considered it expedient.

Since the war with Russia she had spent a tremendous amount of money in Manchuria which had been a very profitable policy for the Chinese.

The present Japanese Government desired still further to develop Manchuria economically and hence negotiations started some time ago between himself and General Yang Yu-ting on behalf of Marshal Chang Tso-lin.

While he was not at liberty to give details of these he might say that they concerned the construction of certain railway lines. These were matters of a purely local character. There was absolutely no question of Japanese aggression, territorial or otherwise.

With regard to the statement by General Yang Yu-ting that the loan from America was to be used for extending the railway from Kirin toward the Korean border, Baron Yoshizawa said that he was not aware that this was so.

In spite of General Yang Yu-ting's stigmatising as a fabrication the Japanese reports that an agreement with Manchuria was almost complete he (Baron Yoshizawa) hoped that the negotiations with regard to all outstanding matters would be crowned with success.—Reuter.

[General Yang Yu-ting, in the interview in question, declared that he did not know whether the American bankers' loan to Japan for the South Manchuria Railway had been signed, but he considered it provocative to the Chinese Government and the Chinese people. They had enough Japanese material to influence Manchuria already without a loan. When the Chinese people learned that the Japanese designs in Manchuria were being supported by American bankers it would antagonise the Chinese people against American bankers and people, so it was very ill-advised for American bankers to court the hostility of the Chinese.]
